Our Ticket.

OPINIONS OF THE FRESH AND UNRECRUITED UNANIMITY.

From our files received by overland mail we select the following as specimens of the declarations of the press in regard to the nominations made by the Chicago Convention. Chicago dates are to the 2[illegible]th May.

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

Grant and Colfax is a ticket that will sweep the country with the power and earnestness that swelled the majority for Lincoln and Hamlin when their names went forth from the Chicago Wigwam eight years ago.

[From the Keokuk (Iowa) Gate City.]

GRANT, COLFAX AND VICTORY.

Glory enough for one day. The Convention at Chicago has done glorious work. It has nominated the ticket that every Republican in the country wished in his heart of hearts could be nominated, without daring to hope that it would be. Grant and Colfax! The two strongest men in the nation. The two men that have most of the public love and most of the public confidence. Patriotism, honesty, the greatest military talent and the greatest administrative talent in the Government go to the make up of the Republican ticket. It is the people's ticket, the laboring man's ticket, the soldiers' ticket, the whole nation's ticket, and will be overwhelmingly elected.

[From the St. Paul Press.]

THE CHICAGO PENTECOST.

Yesterday was a Day of Pentecost for Chicago. Fast by the tomb of Lincoln, the Convention seems to have caught a prophetic inspiration from the dead. It has heard the heart of the nation throbbing at the portals of his grave and has but given voice to the instincts of the loyal people in proclaiming Ulysses S. Grant and Schuyler Colfax as the standard bearers of the Republican party in the great pending struggle for the consummation of his unfinished work. Eight years ago the delegates of this same Republican party obeying the heaven inspired instinct of the people, convened on the same spot, found in a raw, uncouth Illinois lawyer, but little known beyond the limits of his practice, the statesman who was to guide the destinies of the Republic through the grandest and fiercest convulsions which have menaced the fabric of society and government in modern times. The same intuition guides them now. The eight years of blood and agony that have since elapsed rise up to crown and consecrate the kingly men whom thirty millions of loyal Americans, and all free men and good of every nation hail as the true successors of Lincoln and Hamlin.

[From the Cincinnati Commercial.]

GRANT AND COLFAX.

Grant and Colfax will go well together, and there is evidence in their lives that each has peculiar fitness for the place for which he is named. General Grant is an executive man, reserved in words, but prompt to act, quiet in conduct, but decided in principle. He does that which he has to do without noise and confusion, and with little wear and tear. There is no "fuss and feathers" about him and he bears the greatest responsibilities with the ease of a conscious master of the situation. The popular instinct that has turned to him at this exigent time, as the fit occupant of the Executive office of the nation, has not been wanting in intelligence, and has been instructed and confirmed continually by the current history of the country.

The history of Grant is known to all men. He is not a dashing and sympathetic person, gaudy and noisy, full of pretensions and imagining vain things, but serious, steadfast, demonstrative and indomitable. It is sheer stupidity, to deny him the possession of great qualities. His Vicksburg campaign was the most brilliant of our great war and has not been surpassed since Napoleon, unless we count as an exception that of Moltke, which culminated at Sadowa. The battle of Chattanooga was the most brilliant for our arms. The campaign that ended at Appomattox apple tree was the most bloody in the annals of war for more than half a century. It has been sharply and bitterly criticised, but the end thereof was victory. Those of the Republican politicians who know Grant best have the most confidence in him, and in one proposition at least they unite—he is a man without any nonsense about him, has a keen and comprehensive article of common sense, and is safe—upon the whole a good sort of a man to have about the White House.

As to the platform—the most important part of a platform is always the character of the candidates. General Grant is not a man of extreme opinions. He is not of the Wade Radical. That he is in favor of the United States there is no question. He is upon the record as of opinion that more conciliation in the process of reconstruction would be well. He opposed and censured the affected ferocity of Andy Johnson and Ben Butler who pretended they wanted General Lee hanged. The terms of the capitulation of Lee determined and drawn by Grant, who accepted the whole enormous responsibility and discharged his duty with so sound a discretion that it has been ever since a mark of fanaticism and silliness to question it—this transaction shows the temper and the quality of the man, and the Appomattox apple tree plank, though not formally adopted at Chicago, is in the platform.

Mr. Speaker Colfax is the candidate for the Presidency of the Senate, and, if elected will in the chair of the Senate, as in that of the House prove his admirable qualities as a presiding officer, and it will be but a graceful recognition of his excellent services, if he should be promoted from the Speakership to the Vice Presidency—from the third to the second office in the government.

[From the Cincinnati Gazette.]

THE TICKET.

Of the candidates, no one will ask who they are. In 1860, when Lincoln was nominated at Chicago, Grant was comparatively unknown; but since that time his patriotism as a citizen, his valor as a soldier, and his devotion to the principles of liberty and justice have elevated him to the highest position in public esteem and given him a name in history that promises to go down to posterity equally honored with that of Washington. Everywhere in his own country, and everywhere throughout the civilized world Grant is known and honored. Familiar are his name and record of his deeds in every American household; these are equally well known wherever in the households of Europe there is a knowledge of the great American struggle for union, freedom and justice, and by all men at home and abroad, the fitness of Grant who led our armies to final victory for the position of standard bearer to the great party which sustained the government in its prolonged struggle for life and brought it safely through the bloody ordeal, will be acknowledged.

Furthermore, it may be said that Grant is the choice of the people, and, therefore, the people's candidate, as Lincoln was the choice of the people and, therefore the people's candidate, in 1864. Honest and true under the most trying circumstances, Lincoln secured the love and confidence of the American people which no earthly power was able to weaken. He was thus strong because he was honest and true. Grant, as a soldier, was equally honored and equally esteemed, but his fitness for the civil position of President was not at once acknowledged.

When, with the close of the war his name was brought forward as a candidate for the Presidency, it was seriously questioned whether he was a Republican in principle. But this doubt has long since passed away. Quietly but steadily and effectually, he has won the confidence of the people by whom he has been nominated—not by words, for of these there have been few, but by deeds performed at the right time and in the right place. When, like a wall of impregnable strength he stood between the usurper, Andrew Johnson, and the liberties of the people, and thus saved the country from a new rebellion, or a reign of anarchy, all doubts as to his political status were dispelled, and he now stands forth as the worthy leader of the party of freedom, of justice and the national honor chosen for this high position by the spontaneous voice of the people.

For Vice President a man everywhere known, everywhere honored and every way worthy, was chosen. In Schuyler Colfax the people have a man well grounded in righteous principles, who has been fully tried and never been found wanting, and who, as a private citizen, a member of Congress and Speaker of the House, has risen deservedly to a high and enviable position. Into the midst of the party the Republicans have, this time gone for a candidate for the office of Vice President, taking care that there should not be a repetition of the betrayal practised by Johnson. [illegible] imperative has been the lesson of the Baltimore blunder, that a doubtful man could not even get named for the position at Chicago, and hence all the gentlemen who contended for the nomination, stand high in the party and firm in the confidence of the people. And no men will more earnestly support the successful candidate than Wade, Fenton and Hamlin.

Of the platform we need say but little, because there is nothing in it to be apologized for, and nothing left out that we could desire to be inserted. It fairly presents the issues upon which the canvass is to be conducted, and which are vital to the maintenance of a just and honest government. Thus with the best men for our candidates, and with righteousness embodied in the platform and emblazoned upon the banner, the people may with confidence [illegible] rally [illegible] gloriously and steadfastly for Grant, Colfax and victory. The success of this ticket in November will make certain the final success at the ballot box of the cause which was made glorious, successful in part, on the battle field by our soldiers.

GRANT AND COLFAX.

As the Union army closes up its ranks and arranges its columns for another battle, every eye turns towards its leaders and every heart [illegible] in their praise. Grant and Colfax shall lead the Union army to victory now as surely as the watchful care and patriotism of both earned triumph for the country in the dark days of treason and rebellion. Their names are known to every nook and corner of the land as fearless, true and incorruptible champions of loyalty, liberty and human rights.

Grant, the indomitable; Colfax, the irresistible; these are the glorious names to lead the phalanx of patriots to the final victory. Both have fought their way through darkness and adversity and difficulty and discouragement to the highest place in the popular renown. One amid the most overwhelming adversity, calm and self reliant, unmoved by the praise of the people, untouched by the slanders of his envious enemies. Always victorious and the savior of his country, yet modest and retiring as a school girl, who can there be who is more loved and admired than our leader, U. S. Grant? The other, always cheerful in sorrow, sunny and animated in darkness, always working for the people and always sanguine of the country's future, whose suavity cannot be resisted, and whose candor can not be doubted, Schuyler Colfax as the next Vice President, will command the pride and admiration of the people.

When the thunders of artillery that resounded through the country last night, are answered by the deep toned reverberations of the popular voice in November, it will be seen what a hold these illustrious names have upon the popular heart. He who does not admire, respect and love them for their private character and public career is no true American, and such men are few. An envious and detracting opposition can find few points at which to aim their personal attacks. They are above reproach. Their career has been spotless.

Hurrah for Grant and Colfax. Where does not that cry now awake a responsive echo? The nation, through the national party, is aroused, and the nation's choicest sons head that party. The canvass comes on apace. But, standing on the principles of eternal truth, justice and right, and with these noble names at our head, victory will crown our efforts. By the time that the leaves have fallen, and our triumph will have been perfected when the spring blossoms bloom again.

GRANT AND COLFAX.

These are the names and they go well together under which the Union hosts will march on to victory in the campaign, which is now opened. The names of the great Captain, who led the Union armies to the overthrow of the country's foes, and the pure statesman, who has won his way by modest merit to a place in the confidence of the people seldom reached, will be the rallying cry of the campaign.

The united voice of the loyal people of the land has been ratified by the National Republican Convention in the nomination with a unanimity unprecedented, of General Grant, who we believe, has the honest purpose, sound judgment, comprehensive mind, firm will, and unselfish patriotism which will enable him wisely to administer the Executive Department and restore peace and prosperity to the country.

Notwithstanding the strong pressure against him on the ground of locality, and the personal claims of others, Schuyler Colfax, against whose integrity no suspicion has ever been breathed, and whose ability is equal to his moral worth, obtained a majority over all others for the place which Andrew Johnson disgraced, and East and West his nomination will be hailed with delight.

The convention has done well. Let Republicans everywhere organize and labor to assure the success of the ticket they have nominated.

[From the Detroit Press.]

GRANT AND COLFAX.

The leader of our armies in the field and the leader of the legislation which sustained them there are fitly joined together in the labor of completing the great work which under their auspices has been carried forward with so much success. The two mighty forces that crushed rebellion and restored the government over the revolted States are thus represented and embodied in the candidates whom the National Convention of the Republican party has presented to the people of the United States. The armed might of the nation and the moral power of its laws are united upon the broad and common ground of exact justice and equal rights to all men. To the hands of these two leaders who have proved themselves so well in the great offices which they have already filled we propose to commit the grander duty of consummating the work which through years of toil, anxiety, bloodshed and triumph, the party whose standard-bearers they now are has been struggling to complete. The soldier and the citizen thus bound by obligations which a well-founded trust in their fidelity has imposed upon them are at once the types and pledges of the patriotism, the ability, the honesty and the justice which preserve the party that under these leaders, will prove itself as wise in the establishment of a lasting peace as it has been in the prosecution of a great and righteous war. Under them it is to secure the fruits of the struggle. Under them it is to reap the ripened harvest of the seed of that holy cause for which the blood of our martyrs was so freely and nobly shed. By the monument which commemorates alike the sacrifice of those who fell in the rage and tumult of the battle, and of him who fell by the assassin's bullet, will be crowned with liberty and the nation realize at last the full meaning of its great charter of human rights which declares all men are created equal and equally entitled to their inalienable rights.

GRANT AND COLFAX.

The Republican National Convention has done a good work. It has nominated a ticket that will arouse all the enthusiasm in the party and carry the country by storm next November. Grant, the eminent soldier, and Colfax, the eminent civilian! No two better names could have been selected. The honest and the humble printer-boy! Of such stuff are American heroes. The compliment to the press in the nomination of Colfax is no small one. The two men as they stand, are the types of the two powers that saved the country. The one represents the citizen soldiery that fought the enemy at the front, and the other that great enlightened public opinion that reinforced the army by voice, purse and moral support without which it must have failed. Grant and Colfax—the army and the press—the army for stubborn and rebellious traitors—the press for the enlightenment of the people. These are the two principles that war made possible. It lent additional power to the Government, and it created a necessity for universal education. These are the two ideas that the Republican party believe in—a power to throttle giant treason and to pick up the poorest child upon the streets and educate him for the highest offices in its gift. The ticket is at once a rebuke to aristocracy and a hope for the future and with the twin ideas of irresistible power and universal education the great Republican party will start out on its executive mission, feeling assured that it brings with it that which shall be for the healing of the nation.

RATIFICATION.

We accept and heartily endorse the action of the National Convention at Chicago in putting forward for the suffrages of the loyal and patriotic masses the names of Ulysses S. Grant, the conquering hero, for President, and Schuyler Colfax, the pure minded representative of American statesmanship for Vice President. Representing the hallowed and undying principles of the great political organization which has chosen them amongst men to lead its hosts of followers on to a glorious triumph, their names will be caught with patriotic zeal and enthusiasm by millions of fellow countrymen, and made the rallying cry which shall sweep into the darkness of oblivion the impediments met in their way. [illegible] with new courage, feeling that with Grant and Colfax as leaders of the people overwhelming victory sits in waiting at the ballot box, we are prepared for the canvass and will lend all our exertions to the advocacy of our candidates' claims, and the vindication of the doctrines so faithfully expounded and interpreted by a loyal Congress.

As a delegate pledged the Convention a majority of ten thousand for Grant and Colfax in loyal old Allegheny county the Republicans here will see to it that his words were true as ever prophet uttered. We not only pledge our county for that majority but will secure in Western Pennsylvania alone enough votes to insure the [illegible] for the ticket put forward.

GRANT AND COLFAX.

The National Union Republican Convention, in presenting the names of General Grant and Schuyler Colfax for President and Vice President, have formed a ticket that will seem and [illegible] to the favor of the loyal people of the whole [illegible]. No two of our public men are more widely known. None stand higher in the estimation of their fellow citizens. Though young men, both have filled exalted public stations, and have [illegible] signal service to the republic. Their patriotism, their integrity, their unselfish and lofty devotion to the highest and truest interests of [illegible] are unquestioned and [illegible]

The ticket is one of the strongest and best presented to the American people, and will be supported with enthusiasm [illegible] to make its success certain beyond [illegible]. With the names of Grant and Colfax [illegible] our banners and at the head of the [illegible] army of Republicans we are to march on to [illegible] victory. Now then every man to his post! Let us organize thoroughly, and work [illegible] and faithfully, and we shall overwhelm the [illegible] and Copperheads with another App[illegible]

GRANT AND COLFAX.

In obedience to the popular [illegible], the National Convention of the Union party yesterday nominated Ulysses S. Grant for President of the United States. His [illegible] for the position like the renomination of Abraham Lincoln, was made at the imperative [illegible] of the loyal masses, and was not due to the [illegible] of politicians or the manipulations of [illegible] machinery. The proceedings of the Chicago Convention, as far as this nomination was [illegible] were simply the formal registering of the will of the people by their duly [illegible]

General Grant comes before the nation as a candidate for the highest office within its gift, with all the prestige of a glorious [illegible] with the additional fact established [illegible] administrative and executive [illegible] for the discharge of civil [illegible] know his history as a soldier [illegible] the "unconditional surrender" at Donelson to the day when he [illegible] demand to General Lee in Virginia [illegible] name is to summon up [illegible] of Vicksburg, Chattanooga and Richmond, and to [illegible] time when, under his [illegible] and [illegible] leadership, the armies of the Union [illegible] by soldiers of his [illegible] and [illegible] of his conception, crushed through the [illegible] rebellion, and gave us [illegible] There is no [illegible] for [illegible] achievements, for they are known and [illegible] by every patriot. With his martial [illegible] twined the civic wreath. As the head of the military establishment, and as [illegible] he has inaugurated many reforms, promoting [illegible] requiring efficiency [illegible] systems of business. In the [illegible] duties of an executive nature, he has [illegible] that practical good sense, that clear [illegible] ment, and that prompt and firm [illegible] that so prominent in his career in the [illegible] Cool-headed men at the capital have [illegible] that the singular ability manifested by Grant in the field is equaled, if not [illegible] the less brilliant but none the less [illegible] genius for administration he has [illegible] discharge of his civil duties.

The Convention could have done [illegible] act to the feelings of Western [illegible] the nomination of Hon. Schuyler Colfax for Vice President. The history of Mr. Colfax is as well known and his justly [illegible] as the property of the nation, that any [illegible] of him is uncalled for. Mr. Colfax is one of the soundest of our public men. He has [illegible] rather than a great mind, is very [illegible] large practical executive ability, [illegible] miliar with public affairs, and a [illegible] in the great events of the last few years.

GRANT AND COLFAX.

The National Republican Convention [illegible] its work in a manner that [illegible] has satisfactory to the [illegible] in whose name and in whose [illegible] far as candidates were [illegible] select one of the several [illegible] names were presented, for the office of Vice President. For the President [illegible] by the [illegible] the convention met, leaving no duty to [illegible] but to give official form to the [illegible] of the Republican party, of Grant, the [illegible] modest patriot and sagacious statesman, for the first and highest office to be filled by the [illegible] of the people in November next.

For Vice President the convention [illegible] Schuyler Colfax. This nomination is one that will meet a hearty response throughout the Union, and will be hailed with peculiar [illegible] by the Republicans of Indiana. It is the first [illegible] the history of the republic that a citizen of this State has been nominated by either of the [illegible] parties for the office of Vice President. The selection of Mr. Colfax is, therefore gratifying to the State pride of the people of Indiana, and will inspire the Republicans of the State with a determination to secure a popular endorsement at the polls of the action of the convention at Chicago. They would have given a hearty support to any of the worthy and distinguished men who were his competitors for this honor, but for their own fellow citizen they will labor with a zeal [illegible] to that which they manifested for the noble and unselfish Lincoln.

The convention has ventured on no [illegible] in making its nominations. It took [illegible] against [illegible] in the future, by [illegible] candidate for Vice President whose ability and honesty are too well established to furnish [illegible] enemies any [illegible] to [illegible] Grant after his election. With Colfax as Vice President, the Booths and Pomeroy of the [illegible] sition will have no possible motive to take the life of the President whom we [illegible] which is a weighty consideration, for experience has plainly proven that this is the only [illegible] that Republican Presidents can have for their lives.

The ticket is one eminently worthy of [illegible] and confidence and for it the Republicans of the whole Union can work and vote without any misgivings as to the future. The platform is sound and presents a clear and admirable expression of the fundamental principles of the [illegible] party whose history and triumphs are gloriously associated with the most stirring, eventful and momentous period of our national existence.

GRANT, COLFAX AND VICTORY.

Of the Republican nominations made [illegible] day at Chicago there is little that needs now to be said, simply because both have been so [illegible] discussed in advance and are so well known to be entirely agreeable to public feeling. Indeed, the naming of General Grant by the national convention of the Union party was purely a matter of form, inasmuch as his nomination was settled by popular dictation more than six months ago. He had no competitor. During three years past the great soldier has been giving in his silent way, such convincing proof of the highest quality of successful and upright statesmanship that the American people had long ago determined it in their minds that he should be the nation's President and that he should complete at the head of the Government the establishment of the principles which triumphed by the agency of his sword. As it was useless to contest his nomination by the party which represents those principles, so it will be useless to contest his election when the [illegible] is carried next November to the polls.

Beauties of "Democracy" in a [illegible] Government.

When Portland was under R[illegible] there was no trouble at [illegible] tion day. All was quiet [illegible] voter was protected in his [illegible] Democrats obtained cont[illegible] trouble at every election, a[illegible] is constantly increasing. In th[illegible] yesterday there was almost [illegible] after four o'clock. The [illegible] to take possession of the polls and by bully-ing and violence to keep Republ[illegible] away. Being thus unfairly ar[illegible] with the Republicans had no alternative but to stand up for their rights with [illegible] determined manner. Had it not been for the bold stand they took, not a Republican vote would have been got in after [illegible] of the afternoon. A Democrat[illegible] Councilman who busied himself about the polls in the Second Ward all day, brought [illegible] noon a crowd of roughs and [illegible] and their purpose [illegible] tion for the rest of the day. [illegible] evening he and others took a wagon and went to the First Ward in search of [illegible] ing at the highest pitch of their [illegible] they wanted six to elect Rosenheim [illegible] have them. They visited the wharves in search of sailors, or other persons whose votes they could buy, and without [illegible] ceeded in voting many who had no right to vote. The Democratic policemen at the polls acted with more than their usual unfairness, and are largely responsible for the disorderly conduct of yesterday. They made it the [illegible] business, not to preserve order and protect the rights of voters, but to work for the Democratic ticket. The special city police and deputy marshals who are stationed about the polls on such occasions are becoming an intolerable nuisance. It is their [illegible] to work with all their might to [illegible] crats up to the polls in utter disregard and gross violation of the rights of political opponents. The Republicans have a majority of the legal voters of Portland, and they are going to have their rights. This bullying and violence which characterize the [illegible] administration of this city had better end at once. If it continues it will surely end in serious trouble. San Francisco [illegible] a way to clear out the rough, shoulder-hitters and [illegible] bonds who were carrying things with so high a hand under the name of Democracy, and if matters go on at this rate it may be necessary ere long to apply a similar remedy in Portland.

Exit Rosenheim.

The main interest in the election yesterday centered in the Second Ward, where Rosenheim was a candidate for re-election to the Council, and Rosenheim was defeated. John M. Breck, an honest, competent and responsible gentleman, was elected by a majority of three votes. Had the polls closed at the time fixed by law, Breck would have had a handsome majority; but they were kept open nearly an hour beyond the time, and during that hour all the vile places in the city were raked and scraped for voters for Rosenheim. But with all their effort they could not get enough to secure the fellow's election. When the polls were closed it was reported that Rosenheim was beaten by but one vote, an idea which was instantly rejected, however, that by voting for him self he could easily have prevented this result and made it a tie. Though the majority against him is not so large as we could wish, it is large enough to settle the business for him. All honest and decent men should be glad to be rid of him.

In bidding a final farewell to Rosy, it would be our pride to do it, if possible, in such a manner that he would forever be touched by a recoll[illegible] of it. "Nary nother time" shall we find him acting in his favorite capacity as a "balance of power." Nevermore shall [illegible] candidates be compelled to sue humbly for his support, and after receiving his promise thereof, find themselves most woefully "sold." Nevermore, in all human probability, will he be a "balance of power" in electing a United States Senator. He has bid a [illegible] farewell to all his greatness. Nevermore, as of yore, shall he swim on bladders in a sea of glory. That pastime is at an end. With h[illegible]

> The [illegible] of life is drawn, and the mere lees

The [illegible] gratifying spectacle in the world is to witness the deserved fate of a renegade. A man of no ability or integrity in any place he has been called to fill, it would have been an outrage had he been placed for another term of three years in the responsible position for which he was a candidate. A clique sought to place him there that they might use him for their own purposes, and [illegible] they have been foiled in that part of their programme. This is satisfaction enough for one day.

The Albany Democrat has another [illegible] attack on Mr. Logan, in the [illegible] upbraids ministers of the gospel because they did not vote for Rev. Joseph Smith, who, it we are to believe the Democrat, is a model of [illegible] and a rare example of Christian perfection. It says "Everybody who knows Smith [illegible] his bitterest enemies concede that his private character is singularly pure and spotless [illegible] fied, unostentatious Christian [illegible]" Everybody who knows Smith knows [illegible] cally, he is a consummate hypocrite and a most shameless falsifier. He stood up before the people in the late canvass and [illegible] dence denied and disclaimed [illegible] trines he had uttered to them in [illegible] love truth and cherish Union sentiment [illegible] not vote for this known secession[illegible] voted falsifier. And this is the reason why he did not receive the support of the [illegible] the gospel whom the Democrat [illegible]

The Unionist says that Gov. Whiteaker in his first message strenuously advocated attention to domestic manufactures, and alluded to socks and pickles as the products [illegible] needed the attention of our producers. [illegible] ment fell into the hands of the "[illegible]" who expunged its only practical parts [illegible] socks and pickles were [illegible] manufacture of soap has, however, [illegible] by McCord & Co., of Albany, with [illegible] large quantities of it; but [illegible] still neglected. Gov. Whiteaker [illegible] ber of the next Legislature, and [illegible] appointed a special Committee on the neglected articles.

The public receipts given by pawnbrokers for goods [illegible] when the money does not exceed one dollar, were exempt from stamp tax. Section 13, [illegible] banks and bankers being under consideration, Price moved to reduce the tax on the average amount of circulation from one sixth of [illegible] per month to one twenty fourth of [illegible] which occasioned a lively discussion as to the profits of the city and county banks.

During the discussion, Blane argued that a tax [illegible] per cent per annum on average [illegible], would produce $3,000,000, as much as the proposed tax on circulation, which would bear [illegible] on country banks.

Without discussion upon the question the Committee arose, and the House agreed to sit from 11 [illegible], having no evening session.

At 12 o'clock the House resumed the discussion of the tax bill, the portion before the committee being that relative to banks and bankers.

After considerable debate, the question was taken on the amendment offered by Price last night, as modified to reduce the tax on circulation from one per cent. to one-twentieth of one per cent. per month. The vote stood 51 to 51. The Chairman voting in the affirmative, the amendment was adopted.

S. bonds, and a tax of one-twentieth of one per cent on the average amount of circulation.

Section 114, which taxes State banks ten per cent on circulation, being raised, Morrill moved to amend by providing that the section shall not apply to banks that are in liquidation and have [illegible] for circulation for more than [illegible] year. Agreed to.

Beauties of "Democracy" in our Municipal Government.

When Portland was under Republican rule there was no trouble about the polls on election day. All was quiet and orderly and every voter was protected in his rights. Since the Democrats obtained control there has been trouble at every election, and the turbulence is constantly increasing. In the Second Ward yesterday there was almost constant fighting after four o'clock. The Democrats attempted to take possession of the polls and by bullying and violence to keep Republicans away. Being thus unfairly and violently dealt with, the Republicans had no alternative but to st[and up] for their rights, which they did in a determined manner. Had it not been for the bold stand they took, not a Republican vote [would] have been got in after the middle of the afternoon. A Democratic Councilman who busied himself about the polls in the Second Ward all day, brought up in the afternoon a crowd of roughs, and announced his and their purpose "to run that election for the rest of the day." Towards evening he and others took a wagon and went to the First Ward in search of voters, shouting at the highest pitch of their voices that they wanted six to elect Rosenheim, and would have them. They visited the wharves in search of sailors, or other persons whose votes they could buy, and without doubt succeeded in voting many who had no right to vote. The Democratic policemen at the polls acted with more than their usual unfairness, and are largely responsible for the disorderly conduct of yesterday. They made it their business not to preserve order and protect the rights of voters, but to work for the Democratic ticket. The special city police and deputy marshals who are stationed about the polls on such occasions are becoming an intolerable nuisance. It is their constant habit to work with all their might to force Democrats up to the polls in utter disregard and gross [violatio]n of the rights of political opponents. The Republicans have a majority of the [legal] voters of Portland, and they are going to [have] their rights. This bullying and violence which characterize the Democratic administration of this city, had better end at once. If it continues it will surely culminate in [illegible]. San Francisco once found a way to [put] out the roughs, shoulder-hitters and [ballot-box stuffers] who were carrying things with [a high] hand under the name of Democracy, and if matters go on at this rate it may be necessary ere long to apply a similar remedy in Portland.

Exit Rosenheim.

The [chief] interest in the election yesterday [centered] in the Second Ward, where Rosenheim was candidate for re-election to the Council, and Rosenheim was defeated. John M. Breck, an honest, competent and responsible [man], was elected by a majority of three [votes]. Had the polls closed at the time fixed by law, Breck would have had a handsome majority; but they were kept open nearly an hour beyond the time, and during that hour all the vile places in the city were raked and [scour]ed for voters for Rosenheim. But with all their effort they could not get enough to secure the fellow's election. When the polls closed it was reported that Rosenheim was beaten by but one vote, an idea which was instantly rejected, knowing that by voting [for] himself he could easily have produced this result and made it a tie. Though the [vote] against him is not so large as we could wish, it is large enough to settle the business for him. All honest and decent men should be glad to be rid of him.

In [bidding] a final farewell to Rosy, it would be our [wish] to do it, if possible, in such a manner that he would forever be touched by a recollection [illegible]. 'Nary' nother time shall we find him acting in his favorite capacity as a 'balance of power.' Nevermore shall [illegible] candidates be compelled to sue humbly for his support, and after receiving his promise thereof, find themselves most woefully "sold." No more, in all human probability, will he be a 'balance of power' in electing a United States Senator. He has bid a [long] farewell to all his greatness. Nevermore, [ah] ! [never], shall he swim on bladders in a sea of glory. That pastime is at an end. With him [illegible]

> The [wine of life] is drawn, and the mere lees

The [gratifying] spectacle in the world is to witness the deserved fate of a renegade. A [man of no] ability or integrity in any place he has been called to fill, it would have been an outrage had he been placed in another term of [two] years in the responsible position for which he was a candidate. A clique sought to [have] him there that they might use him for their own purposes, and he and they have been foiled in that part of their programme. This is satisfaction enough for one day.

The Albany Democrat has another villainous attack on Mr. Logan, in the course of which it upbraids Ministers of the gospel because they did not vote for Rev. Joseph Smith, who, if we are to believe the [illegible], is a model of piety and a rare example of Christian perfection. It says: "Everybody who knows Smith—even his bitterest enemies—concede that his private character is singularly pure and spotless—that he is a dignified, and [illegible] Christian gentleman." Everybody who knows Smith knows that politically, he is a consummate hypocrite and a most shameless [illegible]. He stood up before the people in the late canvass and with brazen impudence denied and disclaimed the sentiments and truths he had uttered to them in 1861. Men who love truth and cherish Union sentiments could not vote for this known secessionist and self-convicted falsifier. And this is the reason why he did not receive the support of these ministers of the gospel whom the Democrat assails.

The Unionist says that Gov. Whiteaker in his first message strenuously advocated attention to domestic manufactures, and alluded to soap, socks and pickles as the principal articles which needed the attention of our producers. [The do]cument fell into the hands of the "[illegible]" who expunged its only practical part, and soap, socks and pickles were not mentioned. The manufacture of soap has, however, been revived by McCord & Co., of Albany, who are making large quantities of it; but socks and pickles are still neglected. Gov. Whiteaker will be a member of the next Legislature, and he ought to be appointed a special Committee on the neglected articles.

DATES TO JUNE 15.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The Senate to-day [confirmed] the nomination of Reverdy Johnson as Minister to England without the formality of a reference to committee.

In the Senate, Morton, from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, reported a joint resolution requesting the President to intercede with the Queen of Great Britain to secure the immediate [release of] Rev. John McMahon, now confined [in Canada]. Passed.

[illegible] called up the bill in relation to the [Central Pacific] railroad. It allows the company [to take] for depot, storehouses, etc., such portion of Yerba Buena or Goat Island, in the bay [of San] Francisco, as may be necessary. After [debate] it was postponed.

[illegible] called up his bill supplementary to the [act] to provide for a national currency regulating national banks and increasing their circulation [twenty] millions for the new States and Territories.

[illegible] moved to strike out the provision increasing circulation and to insert a clause increasing it one hundred millions and reducing the [green]backs one hundred millions.

Morrill, of Vermont, opposed it and moved to [add] a proviso that the Secretary of the Treasury [shall] be authorized to withdraw an equal amount of [illegible] notes. A long discussion followed.

In the House Price introduced a bill to relieve T. J. [illegible], of South Carolina, from political disabilities. Referred to the committee on reconstruction.

Bingham, from the committee on reconstruction, reported back the Senate bill to admit certain States to representation in Congress, with the recommendation that the amendments be concurred in.

Spalding moved to strike out Alabama.

Farnsworth moved to strike out Florida. He [was] thoroughly convinced that Florida ought not [to] be admitted with her present constitution.

Butler [spoke] at some length in favor of admission. After a lengthy debate, Farnsworth's motion was lost by 45 majority. Spaulding then withdrew his motion and the Senate amendment was concurred in.

Butler, from the Committee on Appropriations reported back adversely the Senate bill to provide for a deficiency in the expenses incurred in the survey of the Cherokee and other Indian reservations. After considerable discussion it was recommitted.

Butler also reported a bill appropriating $150,000 in favor of the Indian Peace Commissioners. Ordered printed.

In the House at the evening session the Committee resumed the consideration of the tax bill. The paragraph requiring a two cent stamp on receipts was struck out and the limit of six months for fixing the proper stamps on instruments was extended to twelve months. An additional section was introduced relieving from stamp tax uncompounded medicines or medicines compounded according to the United States or other pharmacopoeia with full and proper formula. The published receipts given by pawnbrokers for goods received when the money does not exceed one dollar, were exempt from stamp tax. Section 13, which taxes banks and bankers being under consideration, Price moved to reduce the tax on the average amount of circulation from one sixth of one per cent per month to one twenty-fourth of one per cent which occasioned a lively discussion as to the profits of the city and county banks.

During the discussion, Blaine argued that a tax of one half of one per cent per annum on average deposits, would produce $3,000,000, as much as the proposed tax on circulation, which would bear heavily on country banks.

Without discussion upon the question the Committee arose, and the House agreed to sit from 11 to 5 to-morrow, having no evening session.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—In the House on motion of Mr. Clark, the President was asked for further information relative to the treaty for the lands of the Osage Indians, and requested to withhold the treaty from the Senate.

Logan gave notice that he would, next Monday, move to suspend the rules to offer a resolution authorizing the appointment of commissioners to select a site for the capitol of the United States, on account of the disregard of law which the disloyal element is constantly showing in Washington with such bitterness towards loyal people, and disregard of the authority of the United States.

At 12 o'clock the House resumed the discussion of the tax bill, the petition before the committee being that relative to banks and bankers.

After considerable debate, the question was taken on the amendment offered by Price last night, as modified to reduce the tax on circulation from one per cent. to one-twentieth of one per cent. per month. The vote stood 51 to 51. The Chairman voting in the affirmative, the amendment was adopted.

Maynard moved to amend the section by increasing the tax on deposits from one-quarter to one-half of one per cent. per month. Agreed to.

Blair moved to strike out the provision exempting savings banks from tax on deposits. Rejected.

Holman moved to amend by taxing U. S. bonds owned by banks two per cent. Rejected.

As the section now stands it imposes a tax of one-half of one per cent. each month on the average amount of deposits of money other than public money of the United States, a tax of one quarter of one per cent. each month on the average amount of public moneys on deposits, a tax of one quarter of one per cent. per month on capital beyond the average amount invested in U. S. bonds, and a tax of one-twentieth of one per cent. on the average amount of circulation.

Section 114, which taxes State banks ten per cent. on circulation, being raised, Morrill moved to amend by providing that the section shall not apply to banks that are in liquidation and have not issued notes for circulation for more than one year. Agreed to.

Hubbard, of West Virginia, offered a new section to tax United States bearing bonds whether held by any person, bank, association, company or corporation one per cent per annum. Rejected.

Section 115, taxing broker's sales was not amended. No amendment was made to [section] 116 taxing carriages, watches and plate except to limit the tax on pianos, organs and harps to instruments valued at over $200 and the [section] was then adopted.

Section 118, relating to Insurance Companies was read. An amendment was offered making a tax of one-half of one per cent apply to nett profits instead of gross receipts. Rejected.

Stewart moved to extend the tax to life insurance companies. Agreed to.

A motion imposing a tax of two per cent. on gross receipts of safe deposit companies was agreed to.

An amendment reducing the tax on gross receipts of express companies was agreed to.

The section taxing express and telegraph companies was considered.

On motion of Schenck, the tax on gross receipts of express companies was reduced to two and a half per cent., and on telegraph companies to three per cent.

The New York Journal of Commerce, a leading Democratic paper, wants its party to declare that the bonded debt must be paid in coin. This, that paper asserts, is the only mode of payment that would accord with the terms of the contract.

THE BEST CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

is to wear good Undershirts, good Cassimere Suits, and should it be warm, change your heavy clothes for such as suit the weather. Follow that prescription, and you will never suffer with rheumatism, but be certain to buy your clothes of KOHN & FISHEL, for their's are known to cure either cold or heat, and to suit both rich and poor.

The Egyptians,

At their feasts, to prevent excesses, set a skeleton before their guests, with this motto, "Remember ye must shortly be such." How unnecessary such a precaution in these enlightened days, when, by using

DRAKE'S PLANTATION BITTERS,

Digestion is assisted, and all effects of over-eating at once dispelled. PLANTATION BITTERS are the most wholesome and delicious tonic ever prepared. Sold by all dealers throughout the world.

The Council will, for the next year, stand Democratic ..., Union 4.

WAR AT THE POLLS.—About three o'clock, yesterday afternoon, war broke out at the 2d Ward polls and raged with more or less violence during the day. The occasion of the outbreak was a blow given by a challenged democrat to the Union challenger, Mr. Trevett. Mr. Trevett, of course, returned it and then the crowd which was already excited pitched in, one on one side and some on the other. For several minutes there was a vast deal of very loud swearing, punching around, pulling, pushing, scrouging, hustling, knocking off of hats, crushing of corns, pulling hair, general tearing of clothes, getting up from the pavement with black eyes and "busted bugles," and all the elements of a free fight. The battle proper lasted after about five or ten minutes, but the war of words and that sort of strategy which consists in high words and big threats as to what "I" will do under such and such circumstances, continued with but brief cessations till long after the polls were closed. The fight was always about to break out again, or was in actual progress. About the time the polls were closed, the battle broke out afresh all along the line, and then the getting up from the pavement was more frequent than ever, and the number of "busted bugles" was multiplied very considerably. During the day there was some violence at the other polls, but the principal battleground was in the 2d Ward. The day might have been a little more quiet had the Republicans been disposed to yield to all sorts of indignity and to let the election go by default. But they had had enough of bullying and baiting at the late election and had concluded that they would have a fair thing if fair against force could achieve it. It was evident enough that the Democrats intended to play the game of bluff—in short to run the machine. We saw and heard of no row that was not begun by some of them—whether they got much the best of it, might probably be pretty nearly determined by counting noses. These scenes are a disgrace to the city, but if one party attempts to gain an unfair advantage by brute force, we can see no way out of it but to meet the attempt with brute force.

CLACKAMAS COUNTY.—The Enterprise of Saturday has a somewhat lengthy article on the resources of Clackamas county, written in response to the circular recently issued by the State Agricultural Society. It states that the average price of farming lands improved and unimproved is from $3 to $... per acre. Wild land is abundant at from $1 25 to $2 per acre. The assessed valuation of property for last year was $1,648,876 on which was levied a tax of 9½ mills, for all purposes. The county has all the varieties of timber, common to the Willamette valley and a general lumbering business is now being carried on by ten or a dozen companies, with available space for many more. The amount of water available for power is immense. Opportunities for mechanics, tradesmen, schooling and religious worship are excellent. There are five ... at Oregon City, and one seminary and three select schools. There are two woolen factories, one iron smelting works, two of the leading flouring mills of the State, Imperial and Standard, and several extensive lumbering mills. Near the close of the article, the Enterprise says: "The Oswego Iron Smelting works were erected A. D. 1867 at a cost of about $100,000. The celebrated Imperial Flouring Mills are located at Oregon City—and the famous Standard flour is made at Milwaukie. The only iron made on the coast at this time is made at Oswego—it is equal to the best Scotch pig—and is sought ... FROM PUGET SOUND.—Mr. Shiveley, purser of the steamship ..., informs us that the troops taken from Ft. Vancouver to Port Gamble, by the Active on her last trip to Victoria, were transferred to the bark Torrent, an old vessel of five or six hundred tons burthen. She will take as cargo a considerable quantity of lumber from Port Gamble and 200 tons coal from Nanaimo—all for the Government forces at Ft. Kenay. Fred. Crawford of ..., who accompanies the command, as sutler, wrote June ..., from Port Gamble that the officers and men were in excellent spirits and well provided for board on the bark. The bark was to sail on the 10th, and it was ... the trip up would occupy about thirty days. ... bark Milan was also at Port Gamble loading with ... and would take 200 tons coal from Nanaimo, for ... The American residents at Victoria are making preparations to celebrate the coming 4th of July, as were, also, the people of the several towns on the Sound. ... Victoria was in a state of some ... and jubilation at the removal of the capital from New Westminster to Victoria.

... FIRE BELLS.—Just after the close of the 2d Ward polls last evening, the bells were rung at two of the ... houses as if with the intent to raise a fire alarm. We have heard two explanations: one, that the ... rang the bells to express their joy at the result of the ...; the other that they desired to disperse the crowd, in which a sort of free fight was going on. In either case the act was wrong and one which the parties would not ... repeat, upon reflection. It was wrong ... alarms are to be rung when there is no fire ... must become demoralized, and firemen ... know when there is need to turn out. We are ... that the parties did not intend anything wrong, and that they did it upon hasty impulse.

A ... RUNAWAY.—A team belonging to Mr. ... the city, ran away, down Front street, ... in a style which could not fail to do ... active sensationalist. We did not ... how the horses started, but the effects of their ... the street were plainly visible to the naked eye, for the rest of the day—fragments of broken wheels, ... street tools, etc. The horses, impelled by a ... ambition to make the affair as brilliant as ..., plunged into the lake beyond the gas works and ... hard to drown themselves, but the fates were averse. The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, ... nothing to justify the good name acquired by his ... the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive only after a trial, but ... adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!
A Pure and Powerful Tonic,
Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.
Prevents Fever and Ague and Bilious Remittent Fevers; Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water. Invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels.
Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.
REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.
Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.
NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.
The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.
Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.
As a Genuine Tonic HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.
Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials and entirely free from the acid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

Biographical

Gen. Grant was born on the 27th of April 1822 [illegible]. His father was Scotch [illegible] a dealer in leather [illegible] in the army [illegible] the rank of Captain at the [illegible] in 1861 [illegible] Governor Yates [illegible] services to the authorities [illegible] volunteer force [illegible] Twenty first Regiment of [illegible] Illinois Volunteers.

Missouri. In August [illegible] he was commissioned by the President a Brigadier General. In September he took command at Cairo, the district embracing the country [illegible] Tennessee, Cumberland and Mississippi rivers. He lost no time in seizing Paducah, then threatened by a rebel force, and his success confirmed the wavering loyalty of Kentucky, and brought it over to the Union. He won his first battle at Belmont, November 7th, where he was [illegible] under fire, having his horse killed under him [illegible] his personal bravery and military skill inspired a confidence from his soldiers which has clung to him since in every field. He captured Fort Donelson, February 16th, 1862, and on the 19th was promoted to be Major General. The campaign and victories of Shiloh (April 7th), Port Gibson (May 1st), [illegible] (May 14th,) and Vicksburg, (July 4th,) followed in regular succession and paralyzed the power of rebellion in the South-west.

His Chattanooga campaign [illegible] his promotion to be Lieutenant General [illegible] his subsequent direction [illegible] armies in all quarters of the [illegible] personal charge of the [illegible] against Richmond, the firm grasp with which he held [illegible] and the main [illegible] at bay, and the final culmination [illegible] in the success of his great Lieutenants [illegible] the fall of Richmond, the surrender of Lee's army and the grounding of the last rebel musket—all these events are too well remembered by our readers to require more than this brief mention.

The grateful acknowledgements of his country were evidenced in his further promotion to the newly created office of General and the Commander-in-chief of the Federal army during the three years of great civil anxiety and danger which have succeeded, it is not too much to say that the popular confidence in his discretion, vigilance and patriotic devotion to the cause of the Union, have ever been the hope and the consoling assurance of the land. In the many dark hours when official treachery and a disloyal ambition have cast a deep gloom upon patriotic hearts, his presence at the head of our military strength has afforded a cheering assurance of the ultimate safety of the Republic. [illegible] anxiety with which the people watched the campaigns of '64 and '5 [illegible] deep intensity of trusting hope with which their eyes have since steadily kept this man in view. They will now charge him with a greater power and higher responsibilities, and he will inaugurate his last and crowning triumph over Official Corruption and Public Unworthiness.

Schuyler Colfax, the nominee for the Vice Presidency was born March 23d, 18[illegible] in the city of New York, the only son of a widowed mother. He came of an old revolutionary stock, his grand father, General William Colfax, having been the commanding officer of Washington's life guards through the war. The subject of this sketch received a common school education, and after three years service as a clerk in a store, removed with his mother, to St. Joseph county, Indiana. For four years longer he was again a clerk; in his eighteenth year he was appointed deputy to the county Auditor and removed to South Bend. Commencing to write for the local press, in 1845 he became editor and proprietor of the Register, a South Bend journal, which soon became prosperous under his able management. Always a Whig, he became naturally a Republican. In 1851 he was nominated for Congress but was beaten by a small majority. In 1855 he was renominated on the anti-Nebraska issue, and elected by two thousand majority, and assisted to procure the election of Banks to the Speakership after a memorable contest of sixty [illegible]. His speech on the Kansas question at that session was considered of such ability that half a million copies were circulated in the canvass of that year. From that date to the present time, he has been successively elected by large majorities. He was the loved and trusted [illegible] of Abraham Lincoln as he has ever enjoyed the confidence and admiration of the Republican party. In 1863 he was first chosen to the Speakership and has since retained that position, acquiring a high reputation as a prompt and shrewd chairman and a skillful parliamentarian. Since that time as before, he has been most favorably known to his countrymen, and has secured the most implicit confidence of the Republican party.

When he shall be Vice President no Chief Magistrate will be assassinated to secure the elevation of a traitor to the Executive chair. That temptation will never make Schuyler Colfax its tool. His legislative experience has admirably qualified him to preside over the Senate, while his political friends the masses of his loyal countrymen, will never find their [illegible] undeceived or their confidence betrayed in whatever station he may be called to fill.

"When Nobody's Voting I'll Leave the Country."—The above words fell upon our ears as we were passing a country groggery a few days since. The words were sincere, and conveyed an idea so entirely original, that we turned and took a full view of the speaker. He was standing in the door-way of the establishment, which, in its squalid appointments told its history as a genuine Bascom's. The author of the words, however was what attracted our attention. A delicate stream of tobacco-juice coursed its way gently down from the corners of his mouth and dropping from hair to hair of his thick matted beard seemed to cling with a lingering fondness to a place so filthily congenial. His hair, an evident stranger to brush or comb, struggled through various holes in his battered hat, as if it had been disputing the right of way through instead of being compelled to stop under that article of clothing and had gained a partial victory. His bloated face and blood shot eyes told plainly of a recent spree, while his clothes, all tattered and torn and drawn together here and there with a piece of twine showed a wonderful depletion of exchequer. He appeared to have no particular business there, except to lean against the house to keep it from falling probably. As no one appeared to protest against his determination, he turned lazily to the interior of his haunt; we resumed our journey. And this man, this burlesque on the American, this portable whisky-keg, this living receptacle of filth, whom a respectable colored barber would not pollute himself by touching for any money, standing in the door of a [illegible] [illegible] and tells to a [illegible] what the Constitution means, criticises the acts [illegible] gress and declares the impending calamity to the country— When niggers vote I'll leave the country.—Santa Clara [illegible]

When I am Pope.—Mr. [illegible] I am Pope I propose some new articles of faith:

1. Every man shall be married at the age of twenty-five or show good cause for neglect of duty.

2. Every man shall annually tax himself one tenth of his income, until the sum reaches the amount of — to procure [illegible] and the newspapers.

3. Wedding gifts shall never [illegible] plate, et [illegible] the worth of every [illegible] shall be put into the library [illegible]

CAUTION.

To all whom it may concern. I hereby give notice that the so-called "Shipley's Pacific Turbine Water Wheel" is a direct infringement and copy of the James Leffel's American Double Turbine Water Wheel, and its manufacture and use is hereby prohibited. Any person or persons making, using, constructing, or vending said Water Wheels make themselves liable to heavy damages and penalties. Parties interested will take notice, for I shall prosecute said infringements to the utmost extent of the law.

That all may know I mean what I say and am not playing "bluff," I give the following extract from a legal opinion on this subject from one of the most eminent Patent Attorneys in the United States.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 17, 1868.

"Mr. A. Myers—In accordance with your request, we have examined the patents of Shipley on Water Wheels, and are clearly of the opinion that they both infringe the Leffel's patents. In both of Shipley's Wheels he uses the upper and lower tiers of buckets precisely as Leffel does, and in this he clearly infringes. The fact that Shipley has applied another series of buckets in addition to those used by Leffel does not relieve him from the consequence of infringement at all. He has no right to use those two tiers of buckets, whether alone or with a third, or any other number of tiers added. It is a clear infringement. Respectfully yours,

DODGE & MUNN.

I hereby give notice that I will prosecute every infringement on our Patents whether it is the maker, user, buyer or seller. Every infringement, whether our claims are used in whole or in part, will be prosecuted.

A. MYERS.

Medical.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons both male and female, are thrown into a wretched state, from diseases arising from the effects of secret indulgence or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions. Disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. Until at last, a situation they sometimes suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are afflicted with any of these horrible [illegible] destroying maladies—see that they are not [illegible] late. Send them to one of the [illegible] Dr. G. who has made private Diseases his especial study for years and who is certain to secure the most [illegible] without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are [illegible] in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who in [illegible] publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from European and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz.: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget to [illegible] responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use for Ten Dollars sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks [illegible] who with bogus [illegible] no way. Some of the self styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places are tipplers, and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory [illegible] will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The [illegible] way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets, for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are impostors, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended [illegible] letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he professes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 616 Kearney street, corner [illegible].

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 852 ON THE LETTER.
